1. Preamble

N. H. College, Bramhapuri, as a leading College with quality standing in teaching, learning and research activity, gives due importance to research and Innovations. The college is recognized as an Institute of Higher Learning, Research and Specialized studies by Gondwana University, Gadchiroli. The research promotion policy promotes scientific temper of all teaching staff, build an institutional funds and plans for facilitating participation in research activities. Researchers of this institute are required to maintain the highest standard of excellence and ethical behaviour in all their research activity. Institution has adopted the following Research promotion policy

2. Objectives

- To encourage, develop, and enhance research initiatives in college.
- Make sure research articles are published in UGC care list journals and with good impact-factored.
- To encourage and improve the college's research culture.
- To create healthy environment in terms of research by organising various research related programs like seminar, conference, workshop etc.
- Create multidisciplinary partnerships both inside and beyond the college campus and at the national and international levels.

3. Promotion of Research

The college must develop a setting that is favourable for conducting research. Based on the scientific and educational aspects of the proposed research ideas, the college will provide the space, facilities, partial funding, and other resources for research programmes. Additionally, it will give researchers the chance to grow in their ability to write research proposals, research papers, publications, patent applications, etc.

4. Determining Research Topics

Although researchers are allowed to select their own study topics, it is highly preferred to make research pertinent to the demands of the local community and society. The college prepared a list of potential research ideas and topics from research guides. There must be a thorough list of these subjects or areas, known as a bank of thrust areas, under each faculty/discipline and department.

5. Minor and Major Research Projects

The college is required to compile and make public a list of funding organisations. These funding organisations accept submissions from faculty for Minor and Major Research Projects. These proposals need to be carefully reviewed before being submitted to a specific funding organisation. The college intends to create a system that will enable it to keep track of the development of minor and major research projects supported by external agencies, keep track of its finances, and timely submit the utilising certificate to the funding agency in accordance with the funding agency's requirements.

6. Training for Research and Publications

Faculty members are typically enthusiastic to undertake research, but they are unable to focus their efforts properly due to a lack of understanding about how to create a research proposal or a lack of research abilities. Consequently, a funding organisation will frequently reject a research request. The lack of understanding about how to prepare a paper and what format it should be presented in may prevent articles from being approved even for publishing. In order to provide researchers in the designated fields with rigorous training, the college shall organise such programmes.

7. Publication of Papers and Journals

In order to maintain the quality of research papers, the college will encourage teachers and research scholars to get financing for attending national and international conferences from outside organisations. It will exhort researchers to publish and patent their findings. For the college to be functional, research papers must be published in UGC care listed Journals. Faculty members must consistently publish in reputable publications. As a result, the college intends to support the faculty's publication of papers with a specific goal. A faculty member will submit a predetermined number of research papers to peer-reviewed journals on a national and international level. Colleges are encouraged to occasionally host research conferences and publish in high-calibre journals in order to advance the Institute's research efforts.

8. Research Obligation

Any college student (graduate, postgraduate and research scholar) may use the equipment with the required approval of the department head. Equipment is a college asset. Misconduct is defined as obstacles to granting authorization.

9. Incentives for outstanding research

The institute wants to promote high-quality research across a range of focus areas. Outstanding research contributions made by faculty, researchers, and research scholars will be acknowledged for this reason.

10. Harassment

Abuse of supervisory power, exploitation, humiliation, and harassment of individuals should be avoided and is not acceptable. These actions should be reported to the institute's "grievance redressal cell." Similar to this, sexual harassment should be reported to the Institute's "Women Redressal cell".

11. Plagiarism Policy

University grant commission (promotion of academic Integrity and prevention of plagiarism in higher educational Institutions) regulation, 2018 New Delhi Dt. 23rd July, 2018, no. F 1-18/2010 (cpp-II) is abide by this Institute.
